| 12/08/2020 | 37 | Order Denying Motion for Preliminary Injunction - Circuit precedent arising from prior recent executions makes clear the nearly limitless discretion the Attorney General possesses in conducting federal executions. The only limitation to such discretion argued here is the Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution, and the plaintiffs have not met their burden of showing their constitutional claim is likely to succeed. That others, or a court, might exercise discretion differently in light of the risks presented by a deadly virus is not the relevant calculus. The plaintiffs' emergency motion for preliminary injunction, dkt. 12 , is therefore denied. The plaintiffs' motion for leave to file post-hearing responses to the Court's questions, dkt. 36 , is granted. The Court considered these responses in deciding the motion. |            |                    | On January 7, 2021, the Court granted in part the plaintiffs' motion for preliminary injunction and prohibited the defendants from carrying out executions without taking certain precautions. Dkts. 55 and 56. On January 11, 2021, the Court directed the defendants to file sworn affidavits or declarations following each execution attesting to their compliance with the preliminary injunction. Dkt. 60. The defendants filed declarations on January 27 and January 29, 2021. Dkts. 6769. The plaintiffs filed a purported response to those declarations, dkt. 74, asking for a Court order directing the defendants to file a supplemental report documenting their compliance with the preliminary injunction. The Court construes this response as a motion for the Court to order a supplemental report, and that motion, dkt. 74, is denied without prejudice. The plaintiffs have not shown that the discovery process is inadequate for them to obtain the information they seek. If, after discovery, the plaintiffs wish to challenge the defendants' declarations as inadequate, this Order does not prevent them from doing so.
