SUMMARY NOTICE OF PENDENCY OF CLASS ACTION AND SETTLEMENT

PLEASE READ THIS NOTICE CAREFULLY; THIS INFORMATION MAY BE OF BENEFIT TO YOU.

TO: All persons who applied for permanent residence (a green card) pursuant to Section 245(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act between January 29, 1997 and April 30, 2001, in the Chicago Office of the former INS, but who were not then eligible to be approved, because (1) a visa petition was filed before April 30, 2001, but was not yet “current” when the residence application was filed (Class 1); or (2) a visa petition had not been filed for the applicant (Class 2).

I. WHY IS THIS NOTICE PUBLISHED? This notice is published to inform individuals who belong to either Class 1 or 2 in the above entitled case. This case arose out of the alleged difficulties people had during the period between January 29, 1997 and April 30, 2001, when they sought to protect their rights under Section 245(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. Plaintiffs Maria Ramos and Nicolas Olivares argued that the Chicago Office of the INS violated laws, regulations, and INS procedures by accepting prematurely-filed applications for residence between January 29, 1997 and April 30, 2001; and then keeping the filing fees and using the information in the applications to begin investigations and removal proceedings against the applicants. Defendants (representatives of the U.S. Government) deny their actions violated any laws, and deny they have any obligation to Ramos, Olivares, or any of the Class Members they represent.

Under the Settlement, all members of Classes 1 and 2: (1) may apply for a credit for application fees for their residence applications; (2) if they are in removal proceedings, may seek the government’s agreement to terminate those proceedings for humanitarian reasons within six months of the agreement; and (3) if they are not now in removal proceedings, may benefit from a decision not to begin removal proceedings on the basis of their applications. The Settlement also provides for a payment of $90,000 in fees to the attorneys representing the Plaintiffs. MORE DETAILS CONCERNING THIS CASE AND SETTLEMENT TERMS IS INCLUDED IN THE NOTICE FILED WITH THE COURT ON MARCH 30, 2005. IT IS RECOMMENDED THAT ALL CLASS MEMBERS OBTAIN A COPY OF THAT NOTICE AND REVIEW THE CASE FILE.
