THREE-JUDGE COURT
DEFENDANTS' MAY 2012 STATUS
 REPORT IN RESPONSE TO JUNE 30,
 2011 ORDER

Defendants achieved the Court's June 27, 2012 prison-population benchmark more than two months early. The in-state prison population reached 155% of design bed capacity on April 25, 2012. (See April 25, 2012 population report, available at http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/reports_research/Offender_Information_Services_Branch/WeeklyWed/TPOP1A/TPOP1Ad120425.pdf.) Since then, the prison population has continued to drop. Exhibit A sets forth the current design capacity, population, and population as a percentage of design capacity for each state prison and for all state prisons combined.¹ Exhibit A shows that as of May 9, 2012, 122,659 inmates were housed in the state's adult institutions, which amounts to 154.0% of design capacity.² This is 21,529 fewer inmates than were housed in California's prisons as recently as October 1, 2011, when California's historic public safety realignment was implemented under Assembly Bill 109. (See Defendants' October 14, 2011 report, Dkt. Nos. 2407/4099-1.) Accordingly, there is no need at this time to undertake additional crowding-reduction measures to achieve compliance. (See March 15, 2012 Decl. of Ross Meier, Dkt. Nos. 2427/4165, ¶ 3.)

² The data in Exhibit A is taken from CDCR's May 14, 2012 weekly population report, which is available on CDCR's Web site at http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/reports_research/Offender_Information_Services_Branch/Population_Reports.html.
